NEW DRAMATIC MATERIAL

THE BROADWAY THEATRE'S OPENING WITH "THE GHETTO,"

Stage Illustrations of the Life of Jews in Europe-First Performance Here of the Dutch Play in an English Version.

The scene in the auditorium and lobbies of the Broadway Theatre, which opened under Jacob Litt's management last night, was brilliant and animated. The play on the stage, "The Ghetto," was doleful but impressive. All the "first-nighters," that set of people who pever miss an opening night of importance, were on hand. They were profuse in their praise of the new decorations of the playhouse and in their good wishes for the management In a certain respect these desires were realized. Mr. Litt has a drama of exceptional artistic worth in "The Ghetto." play was written by a Dutch author. Herman Hyerman, Jr., and has a record run of 300 performances in Amsterdam. The translation has been made by Chester Bailey Fernald, and has been staged and to some extent reconstructed by Eugene W. Presbry. Its story is a heavy but powerful tale of a Jew's love for his father's Christian serving made. His parent desires him to marry one of his own people but the son refuses. The young man repeats his determination before an enraged mob of Jews who, in their frenzy, would stone him from the streets. The father finally persuades the girl that her lover has deserted her and she, in dispair, throws herself into the river. To here the play was artistic and impressive, but there the high standard of the drams was dropped to cater to public fancy. After a long interval the girl is carried from the river and brought back to life, though she has been in the water no less than five minutes. This ending to the play, probably against the author's artistic instinct, lowered the piece from the poetle to the commonplace.

Joseph Haworth acted the Jew's son who was true to his Christian wife. A more intense performance could hardly be imagined. In a particularly strong scene, in which he declares his steadfastness to the girl before the enraged mob, his performance reached its height. Throughout he was admirable. Grace Filkins, as the persecuted maiden, gave a conscientious reading of the role but was inclined to be menotonous. Mrs. McKee Rankin supplied a well-studied sketch of a Jewish matron. Joseph Herbert, as the obdurate father, was admirably and wearisome. Of course, the latter was the fault of the author, not the actor. Emmett Corrigan supplied an excellent character study, and Bijou Fernandez brought a part with few opportunities into the foreground by has earnest portrayal of it.

"The Ghetto" is produced handsomely and what is more, tastefully. It will appeal to all lovers of the serious and artistic drama as a powerful and intense study of the difficulties between the Jows and Christians in Amsterdam in the early part of this century. It dis-cusses a problem but does not settle it. The matter is no nearer a conclusion at the final curtain than at the first. It ranks well and in the same class as "The Reverend Griffith Davenport" which showed the slavery question from both sides and in a dignified and powerful way. "The Ghetto" treats the subject of intermarriage between Jews and Christians in the

To-night's opening of Koster & Bial's theatre was preceded by a reception last night. The new lessee, Robert Blei, and his business staff showed the redecorated auditorium to invited guests. The fronts of the tiers of boxes had been painted red and white, the walls in red, and the ceiling in light blue and gold. All these colors had been used in the lobby. Many electric lights had been added. The effect was handsome. The capacious house had a richer aspect than before. Mr. Biel explained his plans of management. "This will be a vaudeville house entirely." he said. "Extravaganzas will not be included in the bills. I shall import the best specialists procurable in Europe, and intersperse them with native talent. The foreigners in the opening programme will include Ada Colley, a positively phenomenal soprano vocalist; Alexandra, a noted Danish beauty and singer; Edward Lauri, Mile. Pierizelle and the DeCourcey brothers. This will continue to be a music hall. That is to say, smoking and drinking will be permitted evenings and Saturday afternoons, but not at Wednesday matiness, which will be devoted to women and children at low prices."

Contracts were signed yesterday by which Clasis Loftus becomes Richard Mansfield's leading lady for the present season. Weber & Fields, with whom she broke her agreement to play in their music hall, declars that they to play in their music hall, declars that they will prevent her appearance with any other company in this country. Ex-Judge Dittenhoeffer, Miss Loftus's legal advisor, says that the burleague managers cannot hold her because her contract with them called for a performance on Sunday evening and is therefore legally lovalid. Miss Loftus will make her first appearance with Mansfeld as Rozene in "Cyrano de Bergerac," and later create an important rôle in a new play. This will be the famous mimlo's first plunge into drama, though she has threatened it for many seasons. Norma Whalley retired from the cast of "The Man in the Moon" last night.

DATE OF THE MOLINEUX TRIAL.

Case May Be Called Next Month but May Not Be Heard-Tale of a New Letter.

District Attorney Gardiner on his return to his office yesterday said he thought that the trial of Roland B. Molineux for murder would be called in the latter part of October. It is not thought likely, however, that the trial will be really begun before December.

The District Attorney said that Mr. Weeks's motion to dismiss the last indictment against Molineux had been called on

A report that new letters and evidence connecting Roland B. Molineux with the murder of Mrs. Katharine J. Adams had been found in East Hampton, Conn., was circulated yesterday. Assistant District Attorney Osborne, who has charge of the Molineux case, said last night that so far as he knew no new letters had been found in that part of the country, but he had reason to believe that a letter signed "A. J. Morgan" was received by Dr. D. A. Williams of East Hampton, Conn., some time ago. The letter asked that a certain patent medicine be sent to 159 West Twenty-third street. Efforts were made to trace this letter, but so far as was known it had not been found. Even if it had been, Mr Osborne said, it would merely be one of dozens by the handwriting experts for the purpose of

AGUINALDO'S FRIENDS IN HONG KONG The Detention of the Tartar a Part of Their

Scheme to Annoy This Government. Washington, Sept. 15.—It was learned to-day that the officials of the War Department do not propose to allow the Tartar incident to drop without further investigation. The reports from Gen. Otis and Col. Metcaif of the Twen-tieth Kansas Regiment, indicate that there is an anti-American influence at work in Hong Kong, and army officers suspect strongly that the plan of having the Tartar detained originated at the headquarters of the enemies of the Administration. So strong is this suspicion founded that it was stated authoritatively at the War Department to-day that when the Tartar arrives in San Francisco the officer son board will be asked to submit to the Secretary of War a detailed ecount of the affair.

War Department officials regard the Tartar incident, however, as only one of many efforts to annoy and embarrase the Administration in its efforts to suppress the insurrection. Information from different sources has reached Department regarding the movement of the Aguinaldo adherents, and it is alleged that some of their recent actions in Hong Kong points to the belief that a headquarters has been established there for the purpose of causing the Government trouble whenever possible and arousing dissatisfaction among the troops.

In its investigation of the cause of the Tartar's detention the War Department has ascertained that rumors were current in Hong Kong for several days before the transport arrived there that some scheme to prevent her from proceeding would be tried. A prominent Meial of the Department told THE SUN reporter that this, at least, showed an intention on the part of people in Hong Kong to embarrass the United States.

Gen. Otis Asks for More Staff Officers.

The other officers asked for are two Assistant Adjutants-General. two Inspectors-General, two Quartermasters, three Commissaries with the rank of Major three engineer officers with the rank of Captain or Lieutenant, six Assistant Quartermas-ters, and six Assistant Commissaries with the rank of Captain. Gen. Otis said he desired that as many of these officers as possible should be of the regular staff.

Naval Collier Cassius Wanted For an Army Transport.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.-In its search for ransports to carry troops to the Philippines the War Department has been looking over some of the auxiliary vessels purchased by the Navy Department for use in the war with Spain. The collier Cassius was found to be suitable in every respect, and the War Department to-day requested the Navy Department to transfer her to the Quartermaster-General of the Army. A great deal of work will be necessary to make the Cassius available for use as a troopship, and the War Department wants to have this work done at the Norfolk yard, as all the ship-building establishments n the country are up to their ears in work and will not undertake any more contracts.

MME. SEMBRICH RETURNS.

First of the Grand Opera Singers to Arrive

Her Plans. The first of the season's musical celebrities returned yesterday to New York. Mme. Marcella Sembrich was a passenger on the Fuerat Bismarck and Emil Paure arrived on the Trave. Mme. Sembrich came from Paris, where she had been trying on new costumes that are to be seen at the Metropolitan Opera House this winter. Mme. Sembrich comes this season ahead of the other members of the company, as she is to be the prima-donna of the Worcester and Maine musical festivals. She will make her first appearance with the opera company at Springfield on Oct. 10, in 'La Traviata.'

"I shall probably sing several new rôles this winter in New York," said Mme. Sembrich yesterday, "and will certainly be heard here next winter as Elsa and Eca; also as Marguerite in 'Faust.' I have never sung Elsa before in German, but I am anxious to let New York decide whether or not it likes my way of singing and acting this Wagner role, as well as that of Kra in 'Die Meistersinger.' I would never think of singing Wagner here in any language but German, and I have learned the role in that tongue for the performance here. Whether New York likes my Elsa or not I am sure it will be found different from the atyle of singing the part that seems most repular here now. Possibly it will be too dif-ferent to be liked. I shall also sing Eva, which I studied at Bayreuth with Herr Knisse, the stage manager there, and Mme. Coelms Wagner. She wanted me to sing Era at Bayrouth during the past summer, but I spent most of the time I was abroad in the Austrian Tyrol.

"I made a carriage trip of four weeks, and pent another month in climbing the hills I am also to sing the Queen of the Light next season in 'The Magic Fiute,' which Mr. Grau intends to revi e in a really splendid manner. There will be nine prima donnas in the cast. Such a selection of singers would astonish an audience in any European theatre. This opera, with Nicolai's 'The Merry Wives of Windsor, will be the only ones in which I have not hitherto appeared in New York."

To Emil Paur, who has been abroad this summer, has been entrusted the direction of the Wagner opera this season. Mr. Paur went o Bayreuth and heard some of the festival performances and found them excellent in the way they represented the spirit of Wagner's

"I shall not join the opera company until the opening of the Chicago season," Mr. Paur said, "as no Wagner works are to be given until that time, and I have a tour to make with my own orchestra. I shall be the only conductor of the Wagner operas at the Metropoli-tan this year. It is not true that D. R. Muck of the Berlin Opera House has been engaged for next season or any other. I have a letter from Mr. Grau saying that he has had no com-munication of any kind with him for more than year past. I shall conduct one concert of the Philharmonic Orchestra before I go to Chicago. I have brought a new orchestral suit by Hum-perdinck, but have no other new works for the Philharmonic. I will also act this year as director of the National Conservatory of Music."

NEGRO DISCUSSION OF LINCRING. The Rev. Dr. Farris of Boston Pleads for

Simple Justice for His Race. NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 15 .- The feature of o-day's session of the National Colored Baptist Convention was the speech by the Rev. Dr. W. Farris, from whose church was started the recent anti-lynching crusade. He is pastor of St. Paul's Baptist Church in Boston and spoke on, "How shall we prevent crime, stop lynching and restore law and order?"

The speaker said it made his blood boil to hear of a woman being assaulted by a human brute, and no punishment was too severe for the criminal, but the law should say what his punishment was to be. If those accused of these crimes are guilty, it should be proved inder the law, and then doubt, especially in the North, would be removed, for even the law presumes a man innocent until he is proved guilty. Many take advantage of the doubt and believe him innocent. The black man could afford to be lynched better than the white man could afford to lynch him.

"Standing with God in defense of a crushed and bleeding race," said he, "whose advantages are few, with profound sympathy for all women who have been brutally assaulted, I dare to call in question before this great audience in the name of humanity which is outraged, in the name of liberty which is fettered, in the name of the Constitution and the Bible. which are disregarded and trampled upon, and denounce everything which serves to encourlynching upon a nation, the great crime, sin

Dr. Farris hoped to use every effort to bring bout a reconciliation between the North and the South, to prevent crime and lynching and unite the people of the South upon the biblical remedy for all who are oppressed and

He said he was born in the swamps of Missis sippi, and knew there were as noble, kind and sympathetic white men in the South as in the forth, but the white people of the North and South misunderstood each other. The people desired every man protected under the Constitution. He said the black man is here 10,000-000 strong, a part of the American nation. He

Dr. Farris said he was not seeking social equality (this he could not get in Boston) but he was seeking the right to be tried, condemned and punished by law-he was simply asking the protection of the law. The lynching business in the South and the strikes in the North, he said. had got the country into a terrible condition. Could America hope to have the blessings of God if these conditions continued? It was not party question, but a national question and one of justice. The nation must speak out against all crime and lawlessness. The black men must unite, have confidence in one another, command respect, be men and not tools. The white people of the South, he said, were kind to the black man, and he should appreciate it and do all in his power to live in peace

Gen. Benjamin Flagler Hopelessly Ill. NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 15. -Gen. Benjaman Fingler is hopelessly ill at the International Hotel with Bright's disease. He was taken sick one week ago to-day, and since that time has continued very low. Early this afternoon he was seized with convulsions, and it is feared that he will not last the night out. He was Chief of Ordnance under Governors Mor ton and Black and in 1882-83, was Grand Master of Masons of the State of New York. He is 68 years old, and was a Captain in the Civil War, having been a member of Company E. Twenty-eighth New York Regiment, the first organized in Niagara county.

Little Accident Causes a Big Blockade. A crosstown car in Brooklyn at 7 o'clock last right jumped the track at Flushing and Classon avenues. At this place the tracks of three branches of the trolley system cross one another, and the derailed car landed squarely across the three tracks and then became sep-arated from its forward truck. A blockade of the Greenpoint, the Flushing avenue and the Crossiown lines consequently occurred for over an hour. A wrecking crew with jacks finally cleared the tracks.

M'PARTLAND THE WINNER.

HE OUTPOINTS OTTO SELLOFF IN TWENTY-FIFE ROUNDS.

the Local Puglist is Not in His Best Form. While the Chicago Man Performs Creditably-Barrett Defeats Ryel in the Pre-

Kid McPartland of this city defeated Otto Selloff of Chicago, on points, in a twenty-five round bout at the Broadway A. C. last night, before 3,000 spectators. McPartland did not show his best form, while his opponent put up creditable argument. The fight at times was tame and uninteresting.

Billy Barrett of this city and Louis Ryel of Philadelphia were the participants in a twentyround preliminary at 118 pounds. Odds of 3 to 1 iwers offered on Barrett, but after the first two rounds were over this was regarded as a false price. Ryel was very clever and landed the cleaner blows. Barrett was hissed for hitting on the breakaway. The referee gave his decision to Barrett. It was said that Ryel had never been in public ring before.

McPartland was such a pronounced favorite over Seiloff that as much as 3 to 1 could be obtained on the local pugil-ist's chances. McPartland's seconds were ist's chances. McPartiand's seconds were Bob Clark, Charley Duryes, Billy Needham and Al McPartland. Seifoff was looked after by "Chip" Morrison, Jim Moran and Billy Meyer. They were to fight at catch weights, straight Queensberry rules. When they came together Seifoff appeared to be heavier and more powerfully built. He tried heavy swings, but they were all, wide and McPartland took no chance of getting close during the first round. Seifoff rushed again in the second, and with a hard right he puffed the Kid's left eye. In the third McPartland began driving his left into the stomach, but he soon desisted as Seifoff nalled him on the ribs with a powerful right hander. The Kid was subjected to more rushing in the fourth, Seifoff landing on the damaged eye again.

Seifoff landed a solid left on the nose as the fifth began. Then he wasted a half adozen swings, as McPartland used his feet. The Kid was not aggressive, but in the sixth he began to come closer for a chance to rip in his powerful left handers. In the seventh McPartland landed a quick left swing on the neek and another in the stomach. Then Seifoff rushed and reached the body and head with terrific swings that were half blocked. After that the Kidis leg work made Seifoff pound the air. McPartland saw an opening for his left on the jaw is the sight and Seifoff sammed his wild rushing in the ninth. but did no harm. McPartland is and may lefts in the tenth and two of them in the wind were evidently painful. There was considerable roughing in the eleventh and Seifoff was warned for using his knee. Both sent home effective swings, McPartland's reaching their objective point with better precision.

McPartland got down to hard work in the tweifth and with quick lefts he brought the blood from Seifoff's mouth. The Chicago man clinch, and when he body blows and a right on the neck.

The Chicago man resorted to heavy slugging in the fourteenth and made the Kid take the defensive until a few seconds before the close, Bob Clark, Charley Duryes, Billy Needham and

The sixteenth was tame. Selloff had a shade in the seventeenth but theirane was so slow that the crowd yawned. Several sports were doxing during the eighteenth and nineteenth rounds. The twentieth was also uninteresting, but the twenty-first was a silght improvement, in which Selloff did the more effective punching. The crowd woke up in the twenty-second, when Selloff landed a couple of stiff swingers in the Kid's face. McPartland did the leading, however, and had the points.

McPartland had his man is trouble in the twenty-third, by whipping in stomach punches, but he did not hustle enough to end the battle. Selloff a nose began to bleed in the twenty-fourth, McPartland clearly outpointing him. The last round was an even break.

McPartland was declared the winner, on points.

After the resolution tending to eliminate the clause relating to undergraduates from the constitution of the A. A. U, had been acted on affirmatively, John T. Dooling of the Xavier A. A. called attention to the fact that the amendment as suggested would prevent undergraduates representing any club they wished to in the national championship, but as he understood it, the sense of the meeting was to debar them from the Metropolitan championships only. He proposed an addition to the amendment which should allow to an undergraduate the right to compete from any club in the National championship. Chairman Frawley opposed this view and held that it would be inconsistent to have a man represent a club in the National championship. Chairman Frawley opposed this view and held that it would be inconsistent to have a man represent a club in the National championships who did not live in the district.

"We want to stop the chance of a man coming from Omaha, and running for the New York A. C., and the chairman. He was supported by H. Obertubessing of the New West Side A. C., while Dooling, who sympathized with the New York A. C., and undergraduates, found no adherents. No member of the New York A. C. had been invited to the conference, but on the suggestion of J. P. Boyle, a member of that organization who happened to be in the room was invited to give his views. He reinted out that the matter of the club was of little account, in the National championships, so long as the best man in the country was victorious and that the striking out of the provisions regarding undergraduates from the constitution would undoubtedly precipitate a fight. The compromise addition proposed by Dooling was negatived in an emphatic manner.

The caucus then took up the revision of the general athletic and boxing rules, and at a late hour were still wrestling with knotty problems. The radical amendments to the constitution to be brought up at the Metropolitan Association meeting on Monday, are as follows:

A. J. Criss, Canton, Ohio, writes: "I commenced using Paine's Celery Compound some time last spring. I used two bottles and experienced almost immediate relief.

"I used many other so-called remedies before using Paine's Celery Compound, but none of them did me any good. I am confident from my own experience that there is no medicine in existence that will build up the broken down system so quickly as Paine's Celery Compound.

New York Athletes After Canadian Cham-

The New York Athletic Club team left the Grand Central Depot yesterday morning on the Empire State express on route for Toronto where they will compete in the Canadian track and field championships to-day. Only eight men are on the team, but they are of such good quality that Capi. Hausting is hopeful of at least bringing off the coup he has been trying for all the season, the winning of every event on the programme. If A F Duffy, the winner of the 100-yard A. A. L. championship, crosses the border he is likely to upset the plans of the New Yorkers by again deteating Kraenzisin in the sprint race. Next season Capi. Hausting says that the hurdle and broad pumpehampion will relinquish the specialities at which he became tamous and train especially for the 100 and 220-yard races, when Trainer Murphy expects him to defeat buffy and break all records. The following men who left yesterday were in charge of Athletic Director E. J. Glannini; R. Shellon and John Hansgan, weight throwers: A. Kraenzlein and it. Baxter, jumperst M. W. Long, sprinter: H. E. Manvel and J. Bray, middle-distance runners, and A. Grant, long-distance runner. where they will compete in the Canadian track
